

Inspired by Edo Submission Terms

All art submitted to Inspired by Edo must be original, based on your ideas and created by you. By submitting your art, you agree that you created it and did not copy it or use any AI tools.

The copyright to the art you submit to the competition is yours. However, Inspired by Edo has your permission to copy or edit your art to promote the competition.

If your work is selected as a Finalist, you will need to pay to ship the original work on paper to a U.S. address in a mailing tube. Because the art will be professionally framed, we cannot accept art with anything attached to the paper. We also cannot exhibit any art that has been folded. Inspired by Edo is not liable for damages if the work is lost or damaged during shipping.

Inspired by Edo takes students' privacy seriously. We will exhibit the finalists' art with the artist's first name, grade, state of residence, and excerpts from their statements. However, Inspired by Edo will not share students' email addresses or full names with anyone, to protect their identities.
